

Help shape the future of Optometry in Wales!

If you're an IP optometrist with 2 years' experience, we want to partner with you and your practice to supervise and develop the next generation of IP optometrists.

Your time and professional input will be fully remunerated.

HEIW is inviting optometry practices across Wales to join our growing network of Advanced Training Practices (ATPs).

What is an Advanced Training Practice?

An ATP is a community practice led by an experienced IP optometrist with at least two years of delivering WGOS 5 services. As an ATP, you'll host placement sessions that give IP students invaluable, hands-on experience managing real IP cases.

What you'll need:

- The ability to schedule three IP cases per session/follow ups per session.
- Capacity to provide supervision and support.
- Willingness to host students who are not employed by your practice.

What you'll receive from HEIW:

- A sessional fee for hosting students.
- Full coordination of all placement activity.

- Exclusive access to IP specific CPD and networking opportunities.

Join us in strengthening the future of optometric care in Wales — become an Advanced Training Practice and make a meaningful impact while supporting your team's professional growth.
